PRUNING AND MAINTENANCE

The difference in pruning to most people, pruning is pruning. Sadly this is not the case. Improper pruning can make pruning necessary on an annual ba sis, or force the tree to grow faster, weaker and more susceptible to insects and disease. Topping and "lion's tailing" (cutting all interior branches leaving only the smallest of limbs at the very tips) unfortunately are common practices that should never be done. Large pruning cuts should also be avoided unless an imminent hazard is present. Proper pruning is always done out on the ends with cuts 3" and under.

Trust Fallen Leaf Tree Management For proper Pruning

Pruning is what we are most proud of. We train our staff to be the best at all applications, whether it is your prized Japanese maple or a native oak that shelters your home. When pruning is done correctly it greatly reduces your tree's chances of failure, lowers its susceptibility to insect and disease and brings out lasting beauty that improves the value of your landscape. , Insects and disease. All so that when one of our certified tree workers is in your tree you are GUARANTEED beautiful and less hazardous trees.
